MURDER.

A WHOLE FAMILY SLAUGHTERED

NEGRO KILLED AND ROBBED.

Negroes Murdered in Lewis County.

Man Killed in Bardstown.

Murder appears still rampant in Kentucky. The old Commonwealth will soon properly regain the epithet of "the dark and bloody ground." From all sections we have intelligence of crime. This should not be. It is a foul stigma upon the fair escutcheon of the State, and the strictest measures ought to be taken to prevent this great lawlessness. We are convinced that it does not come from our midst, but that it is the work of desperadoes who have come here. Gov. Stevenson will, we feel assured, take the proper steps to arrest this career of villainy.

MURDER OF CHARCOAL JOHN AND HIS FAMILY.

During yesterday, Coroner Dick Moore was sent for to hold an inquest on the bodies of persons who had been murdered near Randolph's Station, on the Louisville and Nashville railroad. In company with Detective Dillon, he proceeded to the place indicated, where a scene of horror presented itself, which makes the blood of humanity shudder, even to hear it described.

In a desolate spot among the Pond Islands, about ten miles from this city and two miles from Randolph's Station, on the farm of Chas. Smooth, there has lived for some time a man whom we learn was named Willich, but who was known in the vicinity where he lived by the designation of Charcoal John. We are informed by Detective Dillon that in such a manner was his place of residence isolated from the surrounding country that it was very difficult of access, and that Coroner Moore and himself several times lost their way before reaching it.

They finally found the place, however, when they found the bodies of Charcoal John, his wife and two children lying in blood. An examination revealed the fact that they had been murdered with an ax. 'Squire Wood held an inquest previous to the arrival of Coroner Moore, and the jury rendered a verdict that the murdered persons came to their death from wounds inflicted with an ax in the hands of a negro. We are informed by Mr. Dillon that the negro who committed the murder lived at Brooks' station. He is an herb doctor, and was seen on Thursday evening near the residence of Charcoal John with an ax, where he had been digging roots. The roots which he had dug were found near the place yesterday. There is no room for doubt that it was he who perpetrated this foul deed. He has fled and his whereabouts are unknown. It is to be hoped that the hands of justice may lay hold upon the foul fiend who perpetrated this damnable deed.

Coroner Moore remained at Randolph's last night, and will hold another inquest to-day, the first one held by Squire Woods not having been done according to law.

MURDER ON THE SHELBY PIKE,

Last eveuing the Coroner was sent for to hold an inquest on the body of a negro who had been murdered on the Shelby pike, eight miles from the city, opposite Dorsey's farm. We are informed that a negro, whose name we did not learn, killed another negro for the purpose of robbery yesterday at the place indicated above. We were unable to gather further particulars.

A FAMILY OF NEGROES MURDERED IN LEWIS COUNTY.

Several days ago, two young men named Kinnard and Rhyew—one of whom had but one arm—went to the house of an old negro woman, near Concord, Ky., in Lewis county, and asked her to accommodate two lewd women with board and lodging, whereupon the negro woman refused, on the ground that she had no room for them and was not more than able to take care of her own family. The two men went off mad. Both lived in the neighborhood. Last night a week ago, these men went to the house of the negroes and coolly murdered the whole family. They first hit a negro boy about seven years of age in the head with an ax or club and left him for dead, lying upon the floor. They next attacked the old woman and soon killed her. She was about seventy years of age, and blind. While they were killing the old woman the boy crawled under the bed, bleeding terribly. They next slayed two others and left them cold and lifeless, bleeding upon the floor. The murderers left the premises, seemingly satisfied with the bloody deed they had accomplished. But it seems that "murder will out," for the boy crawled to a neighbor's house upon his hands and knees, and informed the occupants of the tragedy. The neighbors gathered together, and, after beholding the scene, turned out to hunt the murderers. The boy had revealed their names before dying last Tuesday night. Two graves were dug by the excited crowd and a search in earnest commenced, for they seemed determined to rid that country of two men, by hanging and then burying them; but, fortunately for the murderers, they were captured by other parties, who put them in heavy irons and started for this city. They arrived here on the steamer Gen. Buell yesterday morning, in charge of Capt. C. C. Adanis, of this city, and were imprisoned to await a trial. Politics had nothing to do with the bloody transaction.

MURDER IN BARDSTOWN.

Last Wednesday, two men, named Hall and Adams, fell out about some watermelons in a patch, near Bardstown. Adams drew a pistol and shot Hall three times—through the heart, the breast and the wrist. Adams escaped. Hall lived about twenty minutes, and his last words were, "I want to see my wife and children."

It's a Brother's Cry.

That which we hear from Ireland daily—one for help in a struggling cause for liberty. Go and be entertained at the theater to-morrow night, and assist a good work.

The Fire Extinguisher.

Another trial of the "American Fire Extinguisher" was made yesterday afternoon on the wharf, at the foot of Second street. The trial was eminently successful. A fire was built of pine strips, set end-wise in a large hogshead, and allowed to get under full headway before the Extinguisher was applied. It accomplished its work in two minutes. The fire was rekindled and again extinguished in three minutes. From what we saw of the apparatus and its operations, we regard it as useful and necessary to all large buildings. The patentees do not claim that a large fire can be extinguished by it. It is only intended to suppress a fire in its incipient stages, and when it should occur in the ceiling or beyond the reach of water thrown from a bucket by hand. The ingredients mixed with the water generate in the apparatus carbonic acid gas, which will extinguish fire when water will not. In Cincinnati the insurance companies have reduced the rate of insurance 10 per cent. on all buildings where these machines are used, under certain conditions—the conditions being that an Extinguisher shall be kept in each story of large buildings. It is worth while for our people to investigate the merits of this machine. It is our opinion it will accomplish much if not all of what is claimed for it by the inventors.

Wearing of the Green.

Culpable as this may be in England, we shall see the green shamrock to-morrow night upon the breast of many a gallant man and lovely woman, at the grand entertainment at the theater.

The Opium Case.

Chas. A. and Geo. W. Powell, were before 'Squires Clement and Matlack, yesterday morning, charged with stealing opium, to the amount of several thousand dollars, from Robinson & Co., druggists. They waived an examination and were held to ball in $5,000 each to answer before the Criminal Court, in default of which they were committed. This bail is regarded by the defense as being too heavy, and we understand that a writ of habeas corpus will be sued out before Judge Bruce on Monday in order to have the amount reduced. The defense is represented by Gen. Ward and Judge Burnett, and the Commonwealth by Jos. G. Wilson, Esq.

Death of a Lumber King.

Many of our lumber merchants, and no doubt many of our citizens, remember Mr. Guy C. Irvine, the well-known lumberman of the pine regions of Pennsylvania. He died recently at his residence in Irvinsburg, Pa., at the advanced age of seventy-eight years. The deceased was a remarkable man—retaining all the faculties of a middle-aged man to the hour of his death. He was no doubt one of the most extensive lumber dealers in the country, having been engaged in the trade with lumber merchants of this city for forty-five years. He amassed a large fortune, to be divided among his several children. He leaves a host of friends and acquaintances to mourn his irreparable loss.

The Finest

Bill of the season is to be offered to-morrow night at the theater, for the benefit of the Fenian Brotherhood.

A Cool Place,

And always comfortable, is the Louisville Theater. Go and see it to-morrow night, and participate in the Fenian festivities.

School Board.

The board of school trustees will meet on Monday eveuing, at the Male High school building, corner of Ceuter and Green streets.

Docket Cases.

There are now on the docket of the City Court one hundred and seventy-seven cases, some of which are of long standing.

The Metropolitan

Had a big crowd last night. The Gardner sisters are the great attraction.

ITEMS ABOUT TOWN.

—The new Galt House has received a second coat of paint outside. The painters had a high time.

—It is very impolite for gentlemen to sit still in a crowded street-car and not offer a lady a seat when she gets in to ride. We saw it done yesterday on Market street.

—Loafers are complaining of nothing to do, and nothing to do it with.

—The work on the new jail is progressing.

—When the leaves begin to fall the trees begin to undress. The ladies begin to dress more.

—Shopping is a favorite amusement with the ladies of our city. The dear ladies can't help it.

—The skating park will become a fashionable place of amusement this winter. The boys can "strike out." We'll let the girls slide.

—Quite a number of trains are employed on the Louisville and Lexington railroad hauling timber, iron, &c., for the new Cincinnati and Louisville railroad.

—Quite a number of new business houses will be opened in this city this fall.

—Capt. Will. Taylor is no longer a conductor on the Louisville and Nashville railroad. We are sorry.

—The work of erecting the new mammoth railroad depot and roundhouse at the head of Jefferson street will be commenced soon.

—The Owl Club have been delighting the young ladies recently by giving them serenades.

—Boys have been having fun making raids upon wagons loaded with peaches, apples, &c.

—The river business has almost run to seed. The railroads are too much for steamboats.

—The young man who got married and was "happy in his dreams," woke up and found he had a mother-in-law. He ain't as happy as he was.

—The stores in the Bamberger & Bloom block, on Fourth street, have all been occupied.

—The more you love your wives the dear-er they get.

—Lively times in the dry goods stores. Fall has set in with its new dress goods, and the ladies set out to buy them.

—Some of the street-cars are not kept clean. You can pretty well judge the car by the driver.

—Capt. L. B. Dunham is building a large sidewheel steamer for the Louisville and New Orleans trade.

—The smelling committee turn up their noses at the paper mill back of the new Galt House.

—The rolling mill still stands on Brook street.

—Two nice residences are going up on the corner of Hancock and Washington streets.

—The city is pretty well cleared of thieves.

—Dress-makers and boarding-houses are "too numerous to mention" in this city.

—Places of amusement are at a premium in the city at present.

—If loafing was hard work, there are a lot of chaps about the United States Hotel who would starve.

—Base ball wants to die a natural death, and the boys won't let it.

The Park Question.

Elsewhere the park question is discussed in our paper. Without sharing in the feeling that would locate the park before settling the question of making any purchase, we do urge upon our citizens the necessity of buying and improving a large breathing room convenient to the city. Any one riding about our city will be struck with various localities at which a park could be advantageously located and be of great benefit to the city. We are of those who believe there should be at least three parks about Louisville, and now is the time to secure them. The city is growing rapidly, and land is cheap, while the public credit is good. As an investment it would pay. Notwithstanding the recent extension of the city limits, no one can look upon the rapid growth of the city without feeling that in but a few years another extension will be necessary to incorporate all of what is the city proper.

A few thousands invested at this time would secure what in twenty years will be very centrally-located parks. There should be one on the river above the city and one below, and a central park back of the city somewhere. A careful investment and good engineering would ornament them with beautiful trees and shrubbery and spacious lakes and spouting fountains. There should be a place for recreation—a place to which the citizens could resort and breathe the fresh dewy air.

Other large cities are thus ornamented, and the parks are the most popular and pleasant places of resort for all purposes. Pic-nics and public meetings are held in them, and mechanics with their families have a place to steal away without cost and enjoy some of the freshness of the country. Louisville is no longer a village set among the woods, but has extended its area over ten miles square, or soon will. It becomes necessary, therefore, to provide vents, the lungs to this lumnense seething, bustling, busy brain and body. Without any jealousy, let us therefore set about having a park or parks pleasantly and centrally located.

Mosby and His Men.

Three beautiful prints of incidents in the exploits of the renowned partisan Mosby have been placed on our table by Messrs. Hull & Co., of the Employment Agency, Green, near Fifth. The scenes are evidently from photographs, and are engraved in the most accurate elaboration of the French school of art. As artistic works they are of the most perfect order. The figures, the scenery, everything has the strange loveliness and accuracy belonging to photography.

One represents the assembling of the band in view preparatory to a descent on a Federal convoy. Everything about it indicates the fidelity of nature. The second represents the partisan band at the moment of attack on a Federal convoy. The hurrying men, the confused and disordered train, and the appearance of the country, all give the evidence of its reality. The last represents the return from a raid, and is an exceedingly fine picture. The rejoicing of the troopers, their welcome by Confederate officers, and the dejected sternness of the prisoners, are very real and life-like. Those who wish to preserve with accuracy the recollection of these daring raids, and who wish to have fine specimens of art, will apply to Messrs. Hull.

Lady Missing.

We learn that an aged lady named Mrs. Looker, left the United States Hotel, Friday afternoon, and has not been seen or heard from since. She is about 74 years of age, had on a brown merino dress, wore a hood, also a black cap. She was stopping with her daughter, Mrs. Crorre, and was from Columbus, Ohio. Any information concerniug her will be thankfully received if left at the hotel.

Erin Go Bragh.

That's the motto of all who visit the theater to-morrow night.

Our Schools, Colleges, &c.

To-morrow being the first Monday in Septeuber, many of our private and public institutions of learning in the city and State will commeuce their sessions. There is not a State in the Union, or a city in any State, that can boast of finer institutions, public or private, than Kentucky and the city of Louisville. The schools and colleges are always the boast of every true Kentuckian, and well may we be proud of them.

It will "go pretty hard," no doubt, with many a schoolboy and girl for awhile to get back into the way of going to school, especially those who have thrown their studies aside during the vacation and employed their time in pursuits of pleasure. We say to all such as intend startling to school to-morrow, go with happy hearts and smiling faces, for you are going in pursuit of that which no man can rob you of, and which will benefit yourself and perhaps be the means of benefiting others. Go, too, with a determination to study and learn, obey your teachers, never be found "foot," always be "head" or "next to head" in your classes; never get kept in at recess, get "licked" or "play hookey," and you'll come out a good scholar, and fit for society and business.

IN THE CITY AND ABROAD.

Grant & Butler's School.—This most excellent school for young ladies and girls will begin its next session to-morrow. It is complete in all its departments, and is second to no institution of learning anywhere. It is not one of those institutions better known by its popularity than for its "good works," but it is a school where the foundation for a finished education is laid and the scholar is graduated a fit example of true education, type of etiquette, and an honor to society and the teachers who educted her. This school will be very large this sessiou, and will continue to grow in numbers under the guidance of such accomplished principals and assistants.

Louisville Female Seminary.—Mrs. W. B. Nold's seuinary will commence its eighteenth annual session to-morrow. That it is a first-class seminary, calculated to make accomplished women of girls, no one who knows Mrs. Nold can doubt. The session will be large.

School for Boys.—Mr. B. B. Huntoon, a strict disciplinarian and an accomplished scholar, will reopen his school for boys to-morrow. He is a good teacher and has established quite a name for knowing how to "teach the young idea how to shoot."

Louisville Female College.—This old and well-established college will resume to-morrow, under the careful guidance of the Rev. S. Prettyman.

Presentation Academy.—The Sisters of Charity from Nazareth conduct this excellent school. The classes will be resumed to-morrow.

Collegiate.—Dr. H. Moore will resume his class in the collegiate school to-morrow. All the branches of a liberal education are thoroughly taught, and boys prepared to enter any college whatever.

Select School.—Miss L. Scroggan and Mrs. Lou Shropshire will reopen their select school to-morrow. Both are good teachers and accomplished ladies.

English and Classical School.—To-morrow Mr. R. M. Chapman will commence the first session of his English and classical school, on Chestnut, near the corner of Second.

Miss Mary F. C. Browne—Will reopen her school to-morrow, at No. 257 Seventh street, between Chestnut and Broadway. Miss Browne is an educated lady, and a careful trainer of the mind as well as body.

Private and Select.—Mrs. Helen E. Parsons wants a limited class of young ladies. She desires to teach them with her daughters at home. Mrs. P. is a lady of experience, education and refinement.

Ursuline Female Academy.—This institution for the education of young ladies will commence its annual session to-morrow. It is a Catholic institution, and one of the best in the city.

Primary Select School.—The regular term of Mrs. Chase's select school will begin to-morrow. The number of pupils will be limited. It is a good school, and Mrs. Chase is capable of managing it. She is a most excellent lady and a good teacher.

Miss White's Institute for Young Ladies.—The sixth annual session of this praiseworthy institution will commence to-morrow. A thorough English course will be taught, the dead languages being optional studies. Miss Anna Brannan is the accomplished principal.

New Castle.—Gen. Kirby Smith's Military Academy at New Castle, Henry county, in this State, will open on the 15th instaut, under the most favorable auspices.

Bellewood.—The next session of Bellewood Female Seminary, situated at Hobbs' depot, will open to-morrow. The Rev. W. W. Hill, the principal, is a fine scholar and a clever gentleman.

Georgetown College.—The first term of the session of 1868 and 1869 will commence to-morrow at this popular and well-deserved institution. It is one of the oldest and best organized colleges in the State.

Kentucky University.—This splendid institution, situated at Ashland and Transylvania, will commence its session hereafter on the second Monday in September.

University of Louisville, Law Department.—The twenty-third session of this old-established school will commence on the first Monday in October.

Patapsco Female Institute.—The term of this school, situated near Baltimore, Md., will commence on the 10th inst. It is a good school, highly recommended.

St. Louis University.—The thirty-ninth annual session of studies in the St. Louis, Mo., University will open in that city to-morrow.

Lasell Female Seminary.—This institution is situated at Auburndale, Mass., and will commence its next session September 24th.

Kentucky School of Medicine.—The sixteenth regular annual course of lectures will commence on the first Monday in October, and continue five months.

N. B.—We refer our readers to the advertisements of the above-mentioned institutions elsewhere in the Democrat this morning. Quite a number of schools, seminaries, &c., have already commenced operations in the city, but these are mostly private and select.

Jumped Off.

Day before yesterday a man stripped himself on the suspension bridge at Cincinnati, bid farewell to this world's sorrows, and jumped off, feet foremost into the river, a distance of ninety feet. He went out of sight, and it was thought was gone, but he came up and was rescued by some boys in a skiff. He says he had time to change his mind between the bridge and the water, and only concluded to take a bath.

High Prices.

The Council ought to regulate prices of vegetables, etc., for the hucksters in the upper marketthouse. They ask three prices for everything, and the consumer gets it through the "½ party."

Thanks.

We are indebted to the messengers, and mail agents have our thanks, for favors.

Going to Retire.

The daily travelers, farmers, pleasure-riding and picnic parties will regret to learn that the familiar and genial face of Mr. Proctor, the polite tollgate keeper on the river road, near the water works, will soon disappear, as owing to his bad health and arduous duties, he has been compelled to resign, and intends coming to the city to rest, but for which we are sure he could be induced to keep his post, which he has held so many years. We learn that Mr. John Woodsmall, of this county, will take his place.

Semper Paratus.

It was Charley Guepner, of Walker's, the facetious Fenian, who upon being interrogated the other day as to his cost of arms, said it was semper praties—always potatoes? He desired to carry the idea we presume that he is ever ready on all questions and surely his house is. Go and observe those delicious and succulent soft shell crabs; think of the grouse and the duck and the water-winged fowl from far off shores, and then come down to a realization of what is the pate excellence of good things—oysters.

Major W. H. Rhea.

We are glad to see once again among us the pleasant visage and manly form of W. H. Rhea, Esq., whilome a Major in the Confederate service, and distinguished for his dash and pluck. Major Rhea is an old newspaper man, and now connected with the Paschall House Association. We can most heartily indorse that as well as all other enterprises in which he may be engaged.

Stealing.

Mary Miller was put in jail, yesterday, by Officer O'Connell, for stealing a bolt of calico. At the time she was arrested she stated that it was given to her by a gentleman on Main street. Any person having lost such goods are requested to call on Capt. Geo. C. Shadburne or Officer O'Connell and identify them.

"The Great November Contest."

Such is the title of a very telling cartoon, admirably drawn, illustrative of all the political parties and their progress. It is furnished by W. Scott Glore, the enterprising dealer in all that furnishes pabulum to the mind, from the corner of Jefferson and Third streets.

Peddling Without License.

John Tracy was lodged in the First-street stationhouse, yesterday, by officers Sinkhorne and Jamison, for peddling without license and carrying concealed deadly weapons.

THE STATE FAIR.

Grand Preparations

THE INAUGURATION NEXT TUESDAY

PREMIUMS TO BE AWARDED.

The city is all agog with the excitement of the races. It will be continued during the present week with the more beautiful and popular attraction of the fair.

On Tuesday next, the annual fair of the Kentucky State Agricultural Society takes place in the pleasantly and eligibly located grounds of the Jefferson county Association, five miles from the city. They promise to be of universal interest.

Up to last evening there had been already numerous arrivals of the finest stock. These embrace some of the most superb herds from the Blue Grass. They contain the pick and choice of the yards and firms of Warfield, Clay, Alexander, Robert W. Scott, and others of our famous graziers.

There will also be there the neat and elegant race horse, the true and swift roadster, the deep and full-chested draft animal, the brawny and sturdy mule, the rather gallant, but not pretty, jack, and the meek jennet.

In the Floral Hall there will be a display of natural loveliness scarcely ever equaled in the country. We hear that every horticulturalist and gardener in Jefferson county, and the neighboring counties of Indiana and Kentucky, are to be present with their fruits and flowers. There will also be representatives from the beautiful vine-clad hills that surround Cincinnati and the adjoining Kentucky.

Power Hall promises to be, and should be, more interesting than usual. Our mechanics and manufacturers owe it to themselves and the city to demonstrate what best Louisville can produce. There will be in competition many others from abroad. Let not those foreign gentlemen, however arduous, be the successful contestants.

The Fair Grounds have been placed in the most complete repair. They are now far more attractive than ever before. With the aid of whitewash, the penning knife, and other articles incidental to a general rehabilitation, this ever pleasant place of resort has been rendered more attractive than ever.

We hope that not only all Kentucky, but especially the city Louisville, will make it a point of pride to attend this exhibition of the State

THE DEMOCRAT ENLARGED!

Change of Type and General Make-Up.

A THIRTY-SIX COLUMN PAPER EVERY DAY IN THE WEEK.

Subscription Only 20 Cents.

Owing to the many complaints of patrons on account of the small type on which the Democrat has been published, we have concluded to enlarge our sheet to a nine-column page and to use beautiful, clear minion type hereafter instead of nonpareil and agate.

By enlarging our sheet, it will afford us ample space and opportunity to give all that is of interest to the general reader, and the letter to accommodate the business patrons of the Democrat.

WE WILL HEREAFTER CHARGE TWENTY CENTS PER WEEK FOR THE DEMOCRAT, SERVED EVERY DAY IN THE WEEK TO ALL PORTIONS OF THE CITY AND SUBURBS—PAYMENTS IN ALL CASES TO BE MADE TO THE CARRIERS DELIVERING THE SAME. This trifling advance will be more than made up by the increased amount of reading matter, and the greater convenience to all in reading its daily contents. We will thus be enabled, for this trifling additional cost, to serve a paper every day replete with all that is of interest.

All orders, either at the Clerk's desk or with the carriers on their respective routes, will meet with prompt attention.

The Benefit of the Bankrupt Law.

Half the people of the country appear to be in debt to the other half, and are paying by the short-hand method of bankrupt notices. We have opened quite a correspondence in that line, and have much light reading for our money. We do not complain. If the printer's bill has laid heavy on the heart and soul of any poor and honest man, may it be lightened by our contribution. True these "little bills" sum up tremendously, and if paid in cash, instead of notices, would float us pleasantly down the stream of business to the port of prosperity. As it is, we have to tide over occasionally, pins the annoyance, to look the world pleasantly in the face.

But we do not consider bankruptcy the great moral discovery of the age. We have a high opinion of the forbearance of mankind, and though a poor fellow often falls among thieves, and lies suffering by the wayside, very often the good Samaritan comes along and helps him out. If this is not the case, then to him the bankrupt law is a benefit. It is a friend to the friendless; to the poor debtor whose character has grown so ragged the snobbish world scorns and persecutes him. It is a hard Christianity that would deny relief to him who cannot pay, as such a man free of anxieties often redresses himself and comes out true and loyal at last.

But the bankrupt law has its drawbacks. It has been said ten rogues lurk in its corners and by-ways where one honest man uses its shelter and protection. It is like the privileges of the Temple in London—a place in which a few old benchers live and pay, while ten thousand shabby rogues lurk in its obscure corners, protected by its immunity and its broad roofs and stately arches. As Nigel Olifaunt fled to its precincts and there found strange wealth and protection, so a hard-driven debtor sometimes finds peace and a sanctuary, though among a nest of rogues.

These privileges of the Temple have long since been abolished, and the poor drogs of humanity lurking in its covert corners and recesses have been swept by the besom of the law into oblivion. The time may come for us to follow the example of the English Government, and tear down this sanctuary we have so carefully built.

Reason as you will, the poor honest creditor who works hardly along in self-denial, cannot feel very kindly to the law, when he sees his quondam debtor snug in a $1,500 per annum rental house, driving his horses, and his wife and children fed on the roses and laid in the lilies of life. His narrow income and limited means cannot permit him to repress a feeling of envy, and he often deprecates that honesty which compels him to toil on meeting his obligations. It is surprising what a demoralizing effect upon his good humor is produced by the sight of his debtor sporting a diamond pin or a gorgeous gold watch and chain. It may be an anchristian sentiment, but it is irrepressible. A few profane excursions on bankrupts and bankrupt laws is the result.

We wish it was in our eloquence to persuade bankrupts to limit their expenditures, at least for a year or more after claiming the benefits of the act, and not to flaunt the perfumes of prosperity too lavishly in the nostrils of quondam creditors. It destroys confidence in them, makes enemies to the law, and engenders bitterness.

We do not think any bankrupt act but the last quittance given from the courts of Heaven, ever relieves a man of the obligations incurred to his fellows for bonafide received and abused. We think every bankrupt should use his relief from creditors' demands to improve his business, not to increase his expenditures. He should keep before himself always the moral obligation to pay—an obligation become tenfold more grave by the destruction of the legal remedy. In his dress and in his home expenses he should retrench and economize. He should never shock the sense of his quondam creditors by a display; he should work resolutely to pay off the old indebtedness, and this is not done by wearing diamond pins and renting $1,500 residences. Modesty, retrenchment, economy become a man under such circumstances. They make him friends, they strengthen his credit, and improve his business. When he can, in addition, begin little by little to pay off the old score, it adds vastly to his character. It gives an impetus to his business. He is trustworthy and trusted. Men say he will pay, and we can afford to help him. So paying, he becomes better able to pay, and lives a life cheered by his integrity and the esteem of mankind.

It is a poor compliment to the sex for a man to say "my wife has been used to this, or has been used to that, and my first duty is to provide for her." For her necessities, yes; for her luxuries, no. Let him ask the dear woman himself: "Would you deny yourself the accommodations of this large house, and take one at a thousand or five hundred dollars, to enable me to pay off some old scores, and thus, in adding to my character for honesty, add to the esteem in which I am held by mankind?" What wife would set her frivolous wants, her desire to shine in fashion and to eclipse her neighbors, against the serious question of her husband's character for honesty and integrity?

Trust our word for it, the good wife would make greater sacrifices than these to insure that her helpmate stood well among men. She would be happier in her self-denial than in her finery, and her husband would be a better, prouder man—prouder of his wife, his friends, himself. He would work with a better heart. He would grapple his difficulties with a sublimer courage. He would look the world in the face with a better heart and a better hope.

No man can defy the world's opinions with impunity. No vulgar display and ostentation will compensate for the loss of character and credit produced thereby. Bankrupt laws do not extend into the moral world. The release from legal penalties does not relieve from moral obligations; does not insure confidence against reckless extravagance. The world may not frown, but it sneers. It is a feeling that extends beyond the man to his wife; it affects his standing as a merchant and a man. The loss is something that wealth cannot buy back. We do not write this with any view personal to ourselves. We do not make it as a complaint. We do not urge it as requiring payment of our claims. We merely give it as sound advice to bankrupts and their families, which they would do well to lay to heart.

September Business.

The fresh cool air of these brilliant September days, coming as the promise of a glorious fall season, cheers the heart and sets the blood bounding. Each season has its pleasures and its peculiar bonanties; but no one can look upon our Western woods in their gay fall dresses without giving an approval to its claims for superior beauty. Every color of the rainbow clothes the field and forest; the crystal streams in their faint drapery of mist and tinge of blue, flow among ornamental banks decked with every foliage and hue. The air is bracing and healthy. The feverish languor of summer is exchanged for a hearty activity. The farmer addresses himself to his fall work, his latest harvesting, his fall plowing, and his visits to the markets. The crops are exchanged, and the plentifulness of money justifies the innocent expenditures and festivities of the season.

This activity finds its equivalent in the city. Already the fall goods, with their enticing beauty, is draped in front of the stores, and our streets are made brilliant with the presence of purchasers. Bales and boxes, drays and transportation wagons are seen everywhere, and the languor with which the unoccupied salesman hung about his place of business or stole away to the watering places, is changed. Every one is brisk, active and stirring.

At this season, when farmers are coming into the city to buy, when customers from the South are visiting us, and exchange, sale and barter is the order of the day, it is very important that our business men should prepare to meet the trade. At no season is advertising found so profitable. The farmer who has read all summer for political information reads now the markets and the advertisements. Where to sell his crops, where to make his fall purchases, is the business of the season. The advertising columns get to be the most important feature of the newspapers.

Experience has proved that no money invested is so sure of return as money laid out in printers' ink. The day when putting up a sign with the firm name was all that was necessary, is past. We see everywhere active business men advertise by placards and circulars, and especially by those showy and extensive advertisements which exposed in the daily press are surest to meet the eye.

More is necessary than merely to make the name of the firm known. The liberal advertiser gives a brief of his stock on hand; repeats it in all possible ways with the location of his business. He resolves that all the world shall know and they do know his occupation. He finds the advantage in a run of custom. The farmers, and the farmers' wives and daughters, the citizen, the Southern customer, all attracted by his energetic advertising, crowd his counters and enrich his coffers.

Advertising in this city is unusually cheap. If the same activity was used by merchants here of which merchants in other cities avail themselves, they would learn the secret of success. It is the experience of the world. All our men of great wealth and heavy business have made their fortunes by liberal advertising. This experience at this season should teach our dealers the path to fortune—the surest way to fortune. There is no way so sure to net a handsome fortune as large advertisements, and we invite our old friends and new ones to avail themselves of our enlarged paper and rapidly increasing circulation.

The Same Everywhere.

The following is the letter of Hon. H. C. Murphy declining the candidacy before the State Convention for Governor of New York. It is manly and to the point. We have an epoch upon us to which all genuine patriots respond: everything for the cause, nothing for self or for men! How characteristic is this of the old Democracy which honored our country:

SEPTEMBER 1, 1868.

GENTLEMEN: Made aware as I am of your intention to present my name for the consideration of the State Convention which meets to-morrow for the nomination for the position of Governor, I deem it proper to address you this communication. From the indictions throughout the State, it is evident there is much contrariety of opinion on the subject of a candidate, rendering my nomination at least doubtful and calculated to engender bad feelings in the party. While I feel sensible beyond measure of the kindness of those who have thought me worthy of being so prominent a standard-bearer in the approaching contest on the part of the Democracy, and shall never cease to remember with gratitude their partiality and preference in my behalf, I consider it due to my friends and the great cause in which we are engaged for the sake of one country to retire from the field of competition and thus, to the utmost of my ability, to promote the harmonious action of the convention.

I am, gentlemen, with sentiments of great respect, your fellow-citizen,

HENRY C. MURPHY.

To Messrs. Slocum, Pierce, McLaughlin, Morris, Craig, Baker, Brewer, Meade and Barnard, delegates, &c., from Kings county.

More of Seward's Mysteries.

A letter from Havana to the New York Herald, of the 3d, says that—

Judge J. P. O'Sullivan, well known in the diplomatic circles of the United States, is here on his way to St. Domingo, in company with his accomplished wife, a Greek lady. He also intends to visit Hayti, and contemplates taking a sketch of St. Nicholas Mole, the place which Mr. Hollister, the American Minister at the Haytien Government, is so anxious to induce Mr. Seward to purchase or to lease, for the great American headquarters in the West Indies. Of course Judge O'Sullivan is reticent as to the objects of his voyage; but there can be no question that he does not intend a mere tour of pleasure, either to St. Domingo or Hayti, and that more probably he is charged with important diplomatic communications for Baez and Salnave. He carries a considerable amount of money in gold and no lack of jewelry.

We happen to know the Judge spoken of well. He doesn't travel on his own money; as to the "jewelry," that may be all right. He is very deaf, and can be as "dumb as an oyster" whenever necessary. Not much of "a tour of pleasure" is he on! But what is in the wind, of course Seward knows, but we don't.

A Missing Californian Turns Up in New York—An Extraordinary Story.

From the San Francisco Bulletin, Aug. 1.

Some fourteen months ago there was established in Vallejo, a thriving establishment in the furniture business, of which the owners were Lazarus Cohn, the founder of the business, and Mr. Morrison, who had recently joined. Mr. Cohn was a married man, with a family of children living in Vallejo, where he was generally respected. About the time spoken of above, Cohn came to San Francisco to make some considerable purchases in the way of his business. He brought with him about $150 in gold, $600 in currency and $1,000 in five-twenty bonds belonging to Morrison, which he was to sell and use the proceeds for the purposes of the firm. He attended Newhall's auction-room, and also visited Rosenbaum's store and shipped goods from there. On the second day he purchased $1,000 more goods of Newhall and others, and among other places he called at the brokers' office regarding the sale of the bonds. He found that he could not quite realize the minimum price fixed by Mr. Morrison, and wrote to Vallejo for farther instructions. In the evening he visited a private family, but left about 9 o'clock, saying that he would go home, for he was very tired. He set off, professedly to go to the private house at which he had been sleeping, but was never heard of again until yesterday afternoon, when a letter was received from him at New York. His statement is that he was shanghaed and carried in a state of insensibility on board a vessel in the harbour. He believes he must have been drugged after he was knocked down, for the first he remembers was the sickness of recovery. It appears that a vessel struck a reef shortly before he had fully come to himself, and one of the first things he remembers is a sailor coming to the bunk in which he lay, after the vessel had struck, and giving him water and a biscuit. The sailor, in view of the fate which seemed impending over them, expressed his remorse for what he had done—whether the crime referred to was the shanghaing or only the subsequent robbery, Mr. Cohen does not know. But the man made restitution of his share of the plunder by giving back to the owner the watch and $400 of the greenbacks, which had been taken, with gold, bonds and other sums, from him. The crew, he believed, then left the ship in the boat; he never saw them again, and believes they were drowned. During the following night the beating of the ship on the rocks threw Cohn out of his bunk on to the deck. In the morning, sick and faint, he crawled up the ladder, and, looking out, saw that the tide had receded and left the ship almost dry on a rocky island. His strength returning, he got ashore, and afterward made several journeys to the ship, getting out stores of provisions, &c., each time. After awhile the ship broke to pieces. He lived the past winter on the food he got from the ship, but in the spring his provisions were exhausted, and death by starvation stared him in the face. Fortunately the ship's boat, we suppose the one in which the men had sought to escape, had drifted ashore, and launching this, he put off to sea, without food or compass. The third day he thinks he became insensible, and remembers no more until he found himself a sick and broken man on a ship proceeding to New York.

From that port he now writes, and his letter states and the writing shows him to be in very bad health. He has sent his wife $75 currency, out of the $600 restored to him by the repentant sailor, and expresses his intention of coming back to California as soon as he is strong enough and obtains the means. The surprise created by the letter is very great, and if his story is true, and we are informed that his family and partner believe it, it is one of the most extraordinary adventures ever published. Of course at the time Cohn disappeared there were not wanting rumors that he had absconded, but his partner and his wife both held stoutly to it that he had been foully dealt with. The investigation was not commenced until he had been missing three days, because his friends here, among whom was a lady whom he had invited to go to the opera the following night, thought he had returned to Vallejo, and those in Vallejo thought he was still here. A telegram from his wife, asking why he did not write, first roused the suspicion that he was missing. The other facts, accounting for his time up to 9 o'clock the night he was shanghaied, were ascertained by the police of this city who were employed in the case.

COMPLICATED MARTIAL RIGHTS.—A curious case was up in a justice court the other day. A Mr. Beman was charged by a Mr. Smith with adultery with his wife. The relations between the parties are of a curious and complicated nature. Beman's wife was also Smith's wife. To make his crime still more heinous, she was at the time of its commission suffering from a severe illness, the termination of which, it was feared, might prove fatal. While in this condition, requiring nightly watchers, Beman obtained Mrs. Smith (the second) to nurse her. Against this Mrs. Beman protested, and desired to have her own sister stay with her, but failed to turn him from his purpose, and Mrs. Smith had remained there until yesterday. Meantime, Smith hearing some rumors, prejudicial to his wife's behavior there called upon her to return. She refused, stating that she would no longer live with him, whereupon Smith brought suit.—[Baraboo (Wis.) Republic.

MARRIED.

CORNWALL—DUMESNIL—At Christ Church, on the evening of Sept. 1st, by the Rev. Dr. Clark, Wm. Cornwall, Jr., and Eleanor Grimsby, eldest daughter of Henry A. Dumesnil, Esq.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

MEDICAL HINTS FOR THE FALL.

The semi-annual shaking in the Fever and Ague districts has begun. The fogs of these Autumn nights and mornings are charged with the elements of intermittent and bilious remittent fevers, and, unfortunately, two-thirds of the community are just in the condition to be disastrously affected by them. Those who have been prudent enough to fortify themselves during the Summer with that powerful and infallible vegetable invigorant—HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS—are fore-armed against malaria, and have nothing to fear. But health is the last thing too many think about. In the pursuit of gain or pleasure the blessing, without which wealth is dross and enjoyment impossible, is neglected.

Better late than never is a consolatory proverb, however, and all who begin to feel the premonitory symptoms of any of the epidemics which are engendered by the malaria of Autumn, should immediately resort to the GREAT ANTIDOTE OF THE AGE. A few doses of the BITTERS will break up the chills and prevent their recurrence. In every region where intermittents prevail this purest and best of all vegetable tonics is indispensable. Of all anti-bilious preparations known it is the most effective and harmless. It does not stimulate the liver violently, like the mineral salivants, but tones, renovates and regulates the organ without creating any general disturbance of the system or enfeebling the digestive apparatus. The BITTERS are essentially a household specific, and should be always within reach as the very best means of preventing and checking bilious attacks and intermittent fevers.

BOURBON.

Success of the Fair—A Grand Hop—Gen. Rousseau.

[Special dispatch to the Louisville Democrat.

PARIS, KY., Sept. 5.—The Bourbon county fair closed to-day, resulting in a most complete and glorious victory over any fair we have witnessed, and even excelling the United States fair held at Chicago in 1867, for its display of stock, &c. During the past two days the amphitheater has contained over 12,000 persons. The interest manifested has never been excelled at any exhibition ever held in the United States.

The exhibition of blooded stock could not have more than been equaled by that of the World's fair, at Paris, France. Indeed, the people of Bourbon county may congratulate themselves upon one of the most glorious victories that they have ever experienced.

The grandest hop that the people of the Bluegrass region have ever witnessed, is being held at the Bourbon House to-night. Fully five hundred couples of Kentucky's sons and daughters are present, and are participating in the festivities of the evening.

Gen. Lovell H. Rousseau, Gen. E. Kirby Smith and many of Kentucky's most gallant statesmen are on the floor, participating in the pleasures, and are most magnificently entertained by the bewitching beauties present. Indeed, such an array of beauty has never been gazed upon before throughout this broad continent.

We will send particulars in a letter.

NEGRO THREATS!

New Orleans to be Laid in Ashes.

By Telegraph to the Democrat.]

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 5.—Pinchback, the mulatto, recently installed in Mr. Jewel's place as Senator from the Second district, parish of Orleans, yesterday, in the Senate, rising to a question of privilege in reply to certain newspaper paragraphs concerning him, after charging the people of this city with murdering and manifesting a growing disposition to murder men for their political opinions and their color of their skin, uttered the following: "I want them to beware; I want to tell them they have nearly reached the end of their string; the next outrage of the kind which they commit will be the signal for the dawn of retribution—a day they have not dreamed—a signal that will cause ten thousand torches to be applied to this city, for patience will then have ceased to be a virtue and this city will be reduced to ashes." He was then called to order, but proceeded with his speech and reiterated his threats, ending a notification to the Democratic party that they (the negroes) propose to take the matter into their own hands in the future, and propose to have peace if they have to conquer a peace.

ARKANSAS.

By Telegraph to the Democrat.]

State of the War—Extraordinary Atrocities.

MEMPHIS, Sept. 5.—Arkansas papers to the 1st have been received. Everything quiet in Conway county. The belligerants have been disarmed. Gov. Clayton and Hon. A. H. Garland addressed a large number of citizens at Lewisburg on the 29th, counselling mutual forbearance. Gen. Dodge, of Dallas (Dallas county) Standard, of the 29th, has a report that a bloody tragedy occurred last week in Louisville, Lafayette county, in the extreme southwest county in the State, resulting in the death of seven negroes and five whites. The details partially as follows: A negro man had committed an horrid outrage upon a little girl, thirteen years of age, and the citizens executed summary punishment upon him by hanging. A brother of the negro went to the scene of the murder and behaved himself in a very insulting and riotous manner, and using threats against those who had hung his brother. The people of the place, after hearing his insults for some time, hung him also. The negroes then in town and in the neighborhood collected together to the number of some forty or fifty, and made a general attack upon the town, which was met by the citizens with the above result.

The crop reports are very encouraging, particularly in the southeastern portion of the State. The crops in Ouchita and Columbia are suffering for rain.

NEW YORK.

Heavy Fall of Rain—The Internal Revenue Fraud Conspiracy.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—The city and its suburbs were thoroughly washed with a heavy rain yesterday. Several cellars were flooded in the lower part of the city, but no damage was done. In Brooklyn, however, more serious consequences followed from the shower. A number of houses in the outskirts were submerged, and the occupants had barely time to escape with a few articles of clothing. Portions of the city railroad track and of the newly graded roads in Gowanus were washed away.

The investigations into the Internal Revenue frauds, in which ex-Collector Thos. E. Smith is accused of conspiracy with Commissioner Rollins and others, to defraud the government, was resumed before Commissioner Galtman in the United States District Court yesterday. Objection was made as to the right of Assistant Solicitor of the Treasury, prosecuting a case against a superior, but the court overruled it. Mr. Courtney read a letter, showing that Secretary McCulloch was cognizant of the proceedings having been instituted, and did not discountenance them. The investigation, after the examination of one witness, was postponed until Monday.

George French, a negro, one hundred and six years old, died at Poughkeepsie yesterday.

The steamship Ocean Queen, from Aspinwall, arrived this morning.

William S. Pennington, son of the late George Pennington, and secretary of Legation at Paris, under President Lincoln, died to-day at his residence in Newark.

At the stated meeting of the board of managers of the American Bible Society, held on Thursday last, grants of books were made to the Freedmen's Aid Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church, to the American Bible Union, for distribution by the Baptist missionaries in Minnesota, to the Maine agent of the New York society and to the Brooklyn Bible Society for distribution on board of vessels sailing to foreign ports; Spanish Bibles and testaments for distribution in Western Mexico, and various other appropriations were made for printing and binding the Scriptures in Florence and Natal. The entire number of volumes granted was 2,634, and of money appropriated $3,000.

The heavy storm that ceased here this morning, and the weather is now clear and warm.

Councilman Scarrell and Joe Coburn got into a fight in a notorious bar-room on Bronston street last night. Scarrell drew a knife and seriously stabbed Coburn about the head and neck. Of course there were no arrests.

Verger Boyce and Henry Wilmot, charged with stealing twenty-four thousand dollars' worth of bonds from Mr. Morris, a broker on Wall street, were this morning discharged.

Personal.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Admiral Farragut and several other naval officers arrived here to-day from California.

Gen. Rosecrans and Horatio Seymour had an interview at the Astor House to-day.

Robbers.

Six robbers entered the house of a Mr. Butler, at Orrasy Point, on the Hudson river this morning, and took away a safe. They carried it to a boat and crossed the river, where it was burst open and five thousand dollars taken from it. They were traced to this city, but have not been captured.

The deaths during the week were 569.

A Denial.

The Albion, of this city, denies the truth of the report that Seward is in correspondence with the British Government on the subject of a revival of the Canadian reciprocity treaty.

A Poor Girl.

A Boston merchant to-day caused his daughter to be sent to a reformatory institution here until she becomes of age, she having run away from home last May.

The Cattle Disease.

No new cases of the cattle disease are reported, and the usual precautions are being still exercised without causing any needless delay to cattle in transit. The herd of sixteen which was quarantined near King's Bridge have continued in perfect health, and was by permission, sold at last to the local market.

Nomination.

HUDSON, Sept. 5.—The Democratic convention of the Twelfth district to-day nominated Hon. Charles W. Sealon, of Poughkeepsie, for member of Congress.

GREAT BRITAIN.

Speech of Reverdy Johnson.

LONDON, Sept. 5.—Yesterday Hon. Reverdy Johnson, American Minister, delivered another speech in Sheffield. This speech was in reply to an address presented by the corporate authorities of the city.

Mr. Johnson said that in the discharge of the duties of his position he anticipated no trouble, so far as the preservation of peaceful relations between the United States and England was concerned, but the high and deserved reputation achieved by his illustrious predecessor, Mr. Adams, had made the difficult task of succeeding him with equal acceptibility. The highest aim of his mission would be to do as well. The speaker repeated what he said yesterday, that a rupture of the friendly relations now existing between the United States and Great Britain would be impossible, on account of the identity of race, language and aspiration. The character of Queen Victoria forbade the possibility of such rupture. Again Mr. Johnson refuted the assertion of Mr. Roebuck, one of the representatives in the House of Commons from Sheffield, that the people of the United States were heterogenous. He mentioned that the foreign emigrants who landed on American soil all merged into one great nation, and that nation was English, and they did not vitiate the community by bringing vices with them.

The Times on Reverdy Johnson.

LONDON, Sept. 5.—The Times has a lengthy editorial on the subject of Johnson's recent speech at Sheffield. It comments favorably on his declarations regarding the homogeneousness of the American people, and thinks that the people of the United States are as much of an English unit as the people of England, where the Irish, Scotch, French and Germans make so large a share of the population. Referring incidentally to the general elections to be held in England, the Times says that whatever may be the result, the same reciprocity of feeling between the United States and Great Britain is certain to ensue.

SOUTHAMPTON, Sept. 5.—A fire took place among the shipping at the dock last night. The damage is unknown, but heavy.

BERLIN, Sept. 5.—The ship Germania, hence on an arctic exploration, was spoken in lat. 80°, 30', long. 50° east, all well.

PARIS, Sept. 5.—The Constitutionnel reports emphatically assurances of peace.

ROME, Sept. 5.—Count Sartiges presented his letters of recall to the Pope yesterday, and left Paris.

LONDON, Sept. 5.—The Standard considers the non-settlement of the Alabama claims no fault of England, she always being ready to settle the dispute and return to friendship. England has always been more disposed to a real alliance than the United States.

SOUTHAMPTON, Sept. 5.—The steamer Saxonia, from New York, arrived this evening.

LONDON, Sept. 5.—A telegram from Hong Kong, dated July 14th, has been received.

The Japanese government has given full satisfaction to France for the murder of a boat's crew from a French frigate.

PARIS, Sept. 5.—The Presse has another editorial to-day on the matter of the American squadron in Turkish water. The writer says that the demand that the United States squadron shall leave Dardenelles was prompted by Russia, and that the Sublime Porte, encouraged by the English and French ministers, will refuse to comply.

FRANKFORT, Sept. 5.—U. S. bonds closed dull at 75¾.

ANTWERP, Sept. 5, P. M.—Petroleum closed firmer, and 50 higher; standard white 50 francs.

A Change in the State Government to be Had—Relief Bill Passed—Important Proceedings of the Legislature.

The Senate to-day passed the bill for the relief of debtors on principles of equality, by a vote of eighteen to seventeen. The House took up the bill authorizing the General Assembly to elect a superintendent, auditor and treasurer of State road. A majority of the judiciary committee favored the bill, but the minority opposed it and offered a substitute, which was adopted, that the General Assembly proceed to elect a superintendent, auditor and treasurer of the State road.

A majority of the judiciary committee favored the bill, but the minority opposed it and offered a substitute, which was adopted, that the General Assembly elect five commissioners for the State road, whose duty it shall be to elect a superintendent, auditor and treasurer.

The bill will come up on Monday, and probably pass. A resolution was offered, but not acted upon, declaring negroes ineligible to any and all offices of the State, and declaring all offices now filled by negroes to be declared vacated, by reason of ineligibility of occupants, and that the Governor be directed to have such offices filled in compliance with the Code of Georgia. The Governor and other commissioning authorities of the State are instructed to issue commissions to no persons of color that have been or may be elected to any office in this State until such Supreme Court of the State shall decide upon the eligibility of colored persons.

Wine in California.

The Alta Californian, of July 20th, says:

There are thirty millions of bearing vines in California, with a capacity of fifteen millions of gallons of wine and one millilon gallons of brandy, which, at the lowest would represent a value of eight million dollars, with great increase when there is a market. The profits of the vineyard greatly exced, because, once in bearing, the cost of attention is small. The vine is safer for a crop than other agriculture; and, when a brand is known, the price fluctuates little. For, while most countries raise wheat, few have climates for the vine; and wine in bulk bears the cost of transport better than other products.

California is too highly favored of Heaven, in being the best State in the world for wheat, wine and gold. No people ever long survived with such extraordinary advantages. It is too much for poor human nature to bear. We remember to have read something about a people "exalted to heaven in point of privileges" that were thrust down to a very different place. California is bragging about her advantages, and multitudes will be willing to take all the risks of her prosperity.—[Cin. Times.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

OFFICE OF THE LOUISVILLE DEMOCRAT, Saturday Evening, Sept. 5, 1868.

The week closes with a quiet local money market. The banks, if not largely supplied, report a sufficiency of currency to meet the requirements of legitimate business, and financial affairs may be regarded in a condition favorable for the various commercial and industrial interests of the city. In the Eastern cities the case that has distinguished monetary affairs continues. In New York, the Herald of the 3d says:

Money continues very abundant at three and four per cent for loans on call, the leading dealers in government securities being offered more funds than they can employ at the lower rate. The remittances westward are very light, and the applications for discounts are on a restricted scale. First class commercial paper is scarce and in moderate request at five per cent for short date and six and seven where it has more than three months to run. The apprehensions of monetary stringency which were expressed a few weeks ago have to a great extent subsided, and the arguments in favor of a moderately abundant supply of money at or below the legal rate during the remainder of the year are receiving more attention. But the old proverb tells us that "a fool convinced against his will is of the same opinion still," and this will apply to not a few on the Stock Exchange.

Eastern exchange is dull and quiet, with light offerings. Occasional sales of small importance are made at 1-10 premium, but the ruling selling rate is par, while dealers are buying at 50 per $1,000, off.

The New York gold market opened to-day at 144¼, being ¼ above the closing quotations of Friday, and closed at 144¾. The Herald, of the 3d, says:

The large Republican majority in Vermont was used by the bears as an argument in favor of a lower premium, but those who attach much importance to this in such a connection have the facility of making unlimited sales on moleskills. Nevertheless, as a political straw it is significant, and its influence upon Government securities was beneficial. There was a good borrowing demand for coin from the bears, and loans were made at two and three per cent. for carrying. The gross clearings amounted to $31,102,000, the gold balances to $1,079,458 and the currency balances to $1,740,761. The sub-treasury disbursed $1,297,000 in coin, in payment of interest on the public debt, during the day. It is a noticeable feature of the gold speculation at the present time that those who were the leading bulls when the price was low are now, almost without exception, leading bears. So much for the consistency of the gold room.

The New York Government bond market opened a shade firmer to-day, and the 10-25 dispatch quoted the market as follows: 5-20 coupons, '81, 114; do '62, 113½; do '64, 109¾; do '65, 111¼; do new issue, 108¾; do do '67, 108¾; do do '68, 108¾; 10-40 coupons, 104¾.

The World, of the 3d, says:

The Government bond market was active and strong throughout the day, and prices advanced in all the leading bonds. There is a steady borrowing demand for some of the bonds. The 1865s are the most active on the list, and closed at 108¾ to 108¾, strong. Considerable shipments of the 1867s are making to Europe, over a million dollars having been sent last week by three German firms. The orders from the interior are larger this week, chiefly for the new bonds, and the business over the counters of the leading dealers is increasing. The 10-10s were an exception to the rest of the market, being dull.

The Tribune of the 3d says:

The investment demand to-day has been heavier than for three months, and large amounts have been bought by banks and savings institutions. The dealings to-day were fully $5,000,000, and well distributed on the list. Heavy sales were made early in the day to break the market for political effect, but without producing any result except to further increase the present unanimity of interest. The Boston and Philadelphia markets are bare of bonds, and the dealers in the latter city are fully two millions short. The amount of bonds already engaged for Frankfort for Saturday's steamer is over one million, all of them of new issue. Subscriptions to the amount of $800,000 are in 67's, which are now the cheapest bond on the market, and the favorite with the German bankers.

The course of trade during the past week has been such as to warrant the opinion we have so frequently expressed in these columns, that we are to have a fair fall trade. There are various reasons why the volume of business is not large, and it is very probable there will be no great rush during the season, but that there will be a steady trade, making a satisfactory showing at the close of the season, is confidently believed by merchants generally. The political outlook is not calculated to inspire confidence, and merchants are disposed to be cautious and husband their resources until the political skies brighten. If victory, in November, perches upon the standard of the party pledged to law and order, the achievement will wonderously intensify activity in every branch of business, and in every department of trade.

In leading commodities transactions for the week have been fully up to the expectation of dealers, and prices, with few exceptions, have been fairly maintained.

Flour is quiet and steady; there has been a fair local demand with small shipments to Southern markets. We have no change to note in grain, except that wheat has a declining tendency, and $2 is the outside figure except for strictly choice white. Oats, rye, barley and corn are steady.

Increasing activity is reported in bagging and rope, and sales of increasing magnitude to factors and planters has distinguished the market during the week.

The provision market is quiet, with a moderate consumptive demand, and prices have undergone during the week but slight quotable change. Stocks are known to be light and below the necessities of the country, which induces firmness on the part of holders, who seem confident that prices will not fall below current quotations. The season for the new crop is now close at hand, and preparations are already being made by packers for an extensive business. The corn crop is every where abundant. Hogs, it is believed, will be of superior quality, and, with ample money facilities, the killing around the falls should aggregate full 500,000 head.

In the department of dry goods, business has largely improved, and a good number of buyers from various Southern States have been in the market, and have purchased liberally. Stocks are large, prices and terms satisfactory, and a large trade is in prospect. The New York Herald, of the 3d, in its remarks upon the market, says:

We can discover nothing in the existing state of affairs to cause a change in the belief that the fall trade will be very heavy and that prices on the whole will rule firm. The earliest buyers will undoubtedly fare the best, and this belief is becoming pretty generally entertained among the trade, hence the rapidly increasing trade at the large jobbing houses. Very many who have been frightened by the political scrape are becoming reassured, and now believe that the country will be no worse off, while a vast benefit may result from the fiery ordeal through which it is passing. There is no more fear of an expansion of the currency, which so greatly concerned many people six or eight months ago; while on the other hand there would seem to be more reason to apprehend a contraction, by means of a long loan, in which the Government bonds and legal tenders may alike be funded. But this possible event is too far in the future to affect the dry goods market this fall. Hence, there would seem to be no obstacle to a large and healthy trade. The credit system is acceptable to all, North and South, and merchants in good standing, from whatever source they come, find ready and ample accommodation.

In woolen fabrics trade is pretty large and rapidly increasing. This branch of the dry goods trade was seldom or never in a more healthy condition than at present. In fancy cassimers, flannels and the finer class of goods generally, a good business is doing, and full prices are in all cases realized.

Imported goods, though active at retail, move comparatively slow at wholesale, yet there is some increase in trade from week to week. The high tariff, if nothing else, would keep up prices.

Brown muslins have sold well this week, and bid fair to be still more active during the next week. Some descriptions have been marked down about half a cent per yard, but this is not general. The leading goods maintain their own with remarkable unanimity.

Bleached muslins, as a general thing, have sold well, but some commission has been made in numerous instances by the leading jobbers, some having marked them down in order to secure custom for others, and have found it to pay well.

Prints have been fairly active, but are quite generally lower.

The season for the commencement of the regular daily cotton sales is now at hand, and the subject of prices, &c., is being discussed in commercial circles. Samples of the new crop have been received, and the indications are that the business in this market during the season will be of commanding magnitude. Various estimates of the growing crops have been made, from time to time, ranging from two to three million bales. Messrs. Wm. P. Wright & Co., of New York, in a recent circular, say:

The weather is now highly favorable over the entire cotton-growing country, as reported by the telegraph, with a high range of thermometer. Should this continue we shall have little more of worms. Planters are picking cotton rapidly, and good progress is made in securing the crop. Crop of 1867-1868. The cotton year terminated last night. Our running account of receipts at the ports, with some few corrections, amount, in round numbers, to 2,200,000 bales. The New York shipping list, when the returns are completed, will probably add enough to swell the total crop of 1867-68 to about 2,300,000, against 191,888 last year, and 2,151,043 the year before. The statement will be issued about the middle of the month. The total exports for the year have been, by our tables, as follows: Liverpool, 1,256,000; last year, 1,210,000; year before, 1,262,000; France, 198,000; last year, 198,000; year before, 221,000. Other foreign ports, 221,000; last year, 143,000; year before, 72,000. Upon receipt of details by mail, these figures will be changed slightly. We are near enough for all practical purposes. The stock on hand last night in the United States was only 51,000; last year, 76,000; year before, 253,000. At no time within the last thirty years has stock in the ports been so small in the country so entirely gleaned of old cotton."
